

A black and white photograph capturing a serene sunset over a body of water. The sun is positioned in the upper right quadrant, partially obscured by a dense thicket of tall reeds or grasses that dominate the right side of the frame. The sun's light creates a shimmering path of reflections on the water's surface, extending from the foreground towards the horizon. In the distance, a dark silhouette of a tree line is visible against the bright sky. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

Roman V Rusinov photography

www.rusignof.com